

Call for Applications: Full-time Faculty Position

Academic Department of Social and Political Sciences - Universidad del Pacífico

Position: Full-time Professor

Roles: Teaching and Research

Minimum Education: Doctorate (PhD.)

The Department of Social and Political Sciences at the Universidad del Pacífico (Peru) announces a competition for one (1) full-time faculty position in Social Sciences, preferably with a specialization in International Relations, Political Theory, or Political Economy. Special consideration will be given to candidates with experience in mixed methods research or research using computational methods for big data.

Job Description and Benefits

The appointment is for a full-time position of 40 hours per week. Competitive international labor and salary conditions apply.

The successful applicant is expected to commence work in the second semester of 2024 (August) and will be on an annual contract, with the possibility of contract renewal based on a positive evaluation of their compliance with commitments. After three years, if the performance meets the University's expectations in terms of teaching quality, research, and institutional commitment, a permanent appointment will be considered.

Requirements

- Doctoral (Ph.D.) degree from an internationally recognized university.
- Demonstrate satisfactory teaching experience.
- Commitment to interdisciplinary and collaborative work.
- Evidence of a minimum of two publications (scientific articles, books, or book chapters in reputable scientific journals/publishers).

Documents for Application Submission:

- Simple copy of the doctoral (PhD) degree or certificate verifying the defense of the doctoral thesis before the application date.
- Curriculum Vitae showcasing experience in the areas of the call, including a list of publications.
- Teaching evaluations, or, in not available, teaching statement that includes a description of previous teaching experiences and available evaluations.
- Cover Letter stating the motivations for applying to the position, highlighting main academic and professional achievements, as well as their goals and aspirations in the role as a professor at the Universidad del Pacífico, and the commitments they intend to undertake.
- Research Statement, detailing their research interests in a maximum of 2 pages.
- A sample of two published works that they consider representative of their research trajectory.
- Two academic recommendation letters that speak to the candidate's teaching potential and research agenda.

Applications must be submitted by email by March 30th 2024 at 18:00 hrs. (GMT -5, Lima time) to Paula Muñoz (p.munozchirinos@up.edu.pe), with a copy to Diana Máximo (dm.maximoe@up.edu.pe) with the subject: "Full-Time Position Competition".

Pre-selected candidates will be scheduled for a virtual interview and academic presentation (job talk) with the regular professors of the Department on mutually agreed-upon dates during May 2024.

The Department reserves the right to declare the competition void if applicants do not meet the requirements and/or criteria of the profile.

Candidates who do not submit all required documents will be excluded from the competition.

The selected person must be able to start their duties from August 1, 2024, beginning their teaching activities in that semester.

